Profile Summary

I am Amir Hossein Zangisheh, a civil engineer with a specialization in geotechnics. My professional activities have developed at the intersection of engineering knowledge, project management, and construction operations. I have been involved in construction and infrastructure projects from the planning and supervision stage to execution. I have always strived to complete projects to the highest standards through proper management, quality control, and technical decision-making. I am interested in developing engineering knowledge, modern construction technologies, and providing practical solutions to address challenges in civil engineering projects.
